

March 25, 1945

Corsica, France

I don't know if you were joking or not about eating too much matzo but we're issued the stuff. We're even going to have a seder. Since I got in this army I've been almost forced into being a "shul" member. We even have the services in my tent which is one reason for my regular attendance. Well, I guess this is about all for this time. I'll try to make the next one a little longer.

So long for now.

Rosh Hashanah at the Rome Synagogue, October 29, 1944

My father was in Rome during Rosh Hashanah in 1944. It was the first time that Jews in Rome were able to celebrate the holiday since the Germans moved in five years earlier.

Sixty-nine years later in May of 2013 I went to Rome and tried to capture the same picture.

For more information about this photo and the article in Yank magazine that my father collected, see my article here:
